

Roleplaying: 1915 Game

Jacks

Materials

- 5 jacks
- A small ball

How to Play

1. The first player prepares to start by throwing the five jacks on the ground and then picking up the ball.
 2. The player throws the ball up, picks up one jack with the same hand and then catches the ball before it hits the ground. The jack is then put into the other hand. This is repeated until all the jacks have been picked up.
 3. The player then throws the jacks back on the floor and starts again, but this time, two jacks must be picked up each time except for the third and final throw when, obviously, only one jack is picked up.
 4. The game continues with the player's next objective being to pick up three jacks at a time, then four jacks at a time, and finally, in the last round, all five jacks in one go before the ball is caught.
 5. When the player misses the ball or does not manage to pick up the requisite number of jacks, their turn immediately finishes and the next player has a try.
 6. The first player who manages to complete all five stages wins.
