

NATURE WALKS

As we have learned, nature is very important. One of the things we can do to enjoy it and learn from it is take a nature walk. Below, you will find some ideas inspired by Dr. Carver.

Drawing

Drawing what we see in nature is how we can both enjoy it and learn from it. Use the journal included in your kit to sketch. Below are some ideas!

- Draw pictures of your favorite things you saw on your walk.
- Draw a scenic picture.
- Make a detailed drawing of individual plants.

Pretend Play

Pretend you are a doctor that uses natural items to treat illnesses. Use your imagination outside and make up some concoctions that could treat ailments. Use anything that you find as long as you know that it is safe to touch. When you have a shelf of “medicines,” find someone who might be your patient. Let them tell you what’s wrong and can use your creations to treat them. Just remember to pretend and don’t actually eat anything you make!
